MEMORANDUM FOR Commander, U.S. Army Financial Management Command, ATTN: COL Brimberry, 8899 E. 56th Street, Room 124X, Indianapolis, IN 46249-3000

SUBJECT: Distinctive Unit Insignia for the United States Army Financial Management Command

1. The distinctive unit insignia (DUI) redesignated retroactively to 1 May 2010, for the United States Army Financial Management Command, was:

a. Originally authorized for the U.S. Army Finance and Accounting Center by letter DAAG-HDP-A, The Institute of Heraldry, 1 November 1985.

b. Redesignated for the U.S. Army Finance Command by letter TAPC-PDH-H, The Institute of Heraldry, 8 March 1996.

2. The description and symbolism of the design are as follows:

DESCRIPTION

A gold color metal and enamel device 1 1/8 inches (2.86 cm) in height overall consisting of a gold eagle displayed and standing on a dark blue horizontal diamond shaped device edged gold on which is centered a dark blue globe gridlined gold; from the diamond extending outward is a series of rays terminating at a semicircular scroll inscribed "SERVICE TO SOLDIERS" in dark blue letters. This insignia is to be worn in pairs.

SYMBOLISM

Golden yellow (gold), one of the colors of the Finance Corps, signifies the unit's relationship to the Corps. Blue, one of our national colors, is associated with prestige. The eagle, a national emblem featured on some of our coins and paper currency, is symbolic of the unit's swift performance of its mission. The diamond shape is adapted from the branch insignia of the Finance Corps. The globe alludes to its worldwide services as do the rays extending to all points of the compass. The rays also refer to the numerous services provided by the unit to the Soldier.
