MEMORANDUM FOR Commander, 221st Cavalry, NVARNG, Las Vegas, NV 89191

SUBJECT: Coat of Arms for the 221st Cavalry, Nevada Army National Guard

1. The coat of arms redesignated ^{regiment} this date for the 221st Cavalry was originally authorized for the 221st Armor Battalion, Nevada Army National Guard, by letter DAAG-HDP-A, The Institute of Heraldry, 18 September 1981.

2. The revised blazon and symbolism of the design are as follows:

BLAZON

SHIELD: Or a pile bendwise Gules and overall a horse courant Argent, on a chief Azure a mullet of the third.

CREST: That for the regiments and separate battalions of the Nevada Army National Guard: From a wreath Or and Gules, within a garland of sagebrush a sledge and miner's drill crossed in saltire behind a pickax in pale Proper.

MOTTO: NEVER BROKEN.

SYMBOLISM

SHIELD: Red and gold connote the Spanish heritage of Nevada, and the branches of the Armor-Cavalry and Artillery, in which the 221st and its antecedents have served. The red pile symbolizes the blast trail of an Artillery rocket. The 221st served as one of the very few Rocket Artillery organizations in the US Army, during World War II. The mustang, noted for hardiness, descended from the Spanish Conquistadors' Warhorses, is native to the State of Nevada and symbolizes a combat maneuver unit. The star is from the Nevada State Flag and the colors blue and silver (white) are the state colors.
