DISTINCTIVE UNIT INSIGNIA

Description. A gold color metal and epoxied device 1 3/16 inches (3.02 cm) in height overall consisting of a gold eight-rayed sun bearing a maroon Greek cross, all in front of gold rays issuing from the center of the sun, the bottom rays terminating in base towards a white snow-capped gold mountain peaks; all enclosed by a continuous maroon scroll arched at top and inscribed "GO AND DO" and inscribed in base "THOU LIKEWISE", all letters gold; surmounting the scroll and flanking the sun on the left, a palm tree with gold trunk and green fronds, and on the right a white fleur-de-lis;.

Symbolism. Maroon and white are the colors used for the Army Medical Department. The eight-rayed sun from the flag of the Philippine President commemorates the hospital's service in World War II, for which it was awarded the Philippine Presidential Unit Citation, the palm tree referring to the New Guinea and Luzon campaigns. The fleur-de-lis indicates the unit's service in World War I. The cross, a symbol of aid and assistance, signifies the historical organization of the unit at Good Samaritan Hospital, Los Angeles, California. The gold rays in the background, which allude both to sunny California and to healing, and the motto from the story of the "Good Samaritan," also refer to the origin and function of the hospital. The snow-capped mountains allude to the unit's 1947 activation in Utah.

Background: The distinctive unit insignia was originally approved for the 328th General Hospital on 28 July 1970. It was redesignated effective 1 September 1995, with the description and symbolism revised, for the 328th Combat Support Hospital. It was redesignated effective 16 June 2000, for the 328th Field Hospital. The insignia was redesignated for the 328th Combat Support Hospital effective 17 September 2004. The insignia was redesignated for the 328th Field Hospital effective 5 June 2019.
